Never leave cooking unattended.

Make sure the oven and stove-top burners are off at all times if you need to leave the kitchen.

Survey results show that cooking with the oven and stove-top burners in an imprudent manner is the leading cause of home fires and fire injuries. The public ought to be aware of fire safety for home cooking all the time. Never leave cooking unattended if you need to take a nap, get caught up in a phone call, or leave the house for a while because unattended cooking can lead to something much worse than just burnt food: it could burn down your house. As long as you keep doing this, you can always enjoy cooking and have a carefree meal.

Precautions for home cooking safety:

1. Keep a range hood and its duct clean as grease residue on them can catch fire.
2. Fires start when the heat temperature is too high. You should prevent overheating while sauteing or pan frying, and be alerted that cooking with alcohol can bring about a fire.
3. When making a soup, you should keep it from spilling over the edges of the pot and make sure that there are no flammable or combustible materials on the stove top and its surroundings.
4. Install a home fire alarm device (HFAD) in the kitchen.
